

Resumption of Domestic Flights (4/5/2020)

The Tourism Authority of Thailand has provided the latest update from the Airports of Thailand (AOT) regarding the resumption of domestic flights at its airports, following over a month of temporary flight suspensions by several airlines as part of the efforts to help prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Suvarnabhumi International Airport: Thai Vietjet Air has been operating as per normal over the past month, while Bangkok Airways will resume its Bangkok Samui service from 15 May 2020 onwards.

Don Mueang International Airport: Thai AirAsia and Thai Lion Air have resumed domestic operations from 1 May 2020 onwards. Nok Air has been operating as per normal over the past month.

Chiang Mai International Airport: Thai AirAsia, Thai Lion Air, Thai Vietjet Air and Nok Air have resumed domestic operations from 1 May 2020 onwards.

Mae Fah Luang Chiang Rai International Airport: Thai AirAsia, Thai Vietjet Air and Nok Air have resumed domestic operations from 1 May 2020 onwards.

Hat Yai International Airport: Thai AirAsia, Thai Lion Air, and Nok Air have resumed domestic operations from 1 May 2020 onwards.

Phuket International Airport: The Civil Aviation Authority of Thailand has extended the Phuket Airport closure until 15 May 2020.

The AOT has issued guidelines for passengers to prepare themselves before boarding the aircraft.

The airport users will be screened and have their temperature checked. If the body temperature is over 37.3 degrees Celsius, they will be rejected from entering the airport areas.

Wear a face mask: Passengers are required to wear face masks at all times while in the airport or will be rejected on entering.

Social distancing: Passengers are advised to keep a distance of at least one meter from other people or follow the specified airport signs.

Follow advice: Passengers are required to follow the advice of the officers and should arrive at the airport well in advance for the convenience and safety of everyone.
